DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure Statement

1. The listing of references in the specification is not a proper information disclosure statement. 37 CFR 1.98(b) requires a list of all patents, publications, or other information submitted for consideration by the Office, and MPEP § 609 A(1) states, "the list may not be incorporated into the specification but must be submitted in a separate paper." Therefore, unless the references have been cited by the examiner on form PTO-892, they have not been considered.

Specification

2. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities:

- On page 3, line 21: "vis-a-vie" should be --vis-à-vis--; and,
- On page 3, line 26, to page 4, line 1: "Alternatively, target." should be somehow corrected.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 101:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

4. Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

Though performing the method of the instant invention, as disclosed, requires the use of computers, method claims 1-9 fail to recite any limitation that would require a computer or any other structural element that would inherently and necessarily require a computer (simply the step of “computing,” as the claims broadly recite, does not).

Current Office policy is to reject as non-statutory under § 101, method claims that fail to require the use of any computer, for failing to fall within the technological arts.

To overcome such a rejection, a positive limitation in the body of the claim is required to recite either the use of a computer, per se, or else some other element that would inherently and necessarily require a computer.

Regarding apparatus claims 10-12, the device, as claimed, produces no useful, concrete, and tangible result. The machine merely produces numbers, then simply stores those numbers internally, somewhere within the depths of its memory circuits, keeping the numbers a secret from any of its human owners and operators.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

6. Claims 1-12, as best understood in light of any rejections made 35 U.S.C. 101, hereinabove, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102 as being clearly anticipated by the admitted prior art, as described in the written specification.

Note that, in making this rejection, the nature of the particular assets being evaluated has been deemed merely an intended use of the claimed invention, hence, afforded little patentable weight.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to the disclosure.
8. Any inquiry concerning this communication, or earlier communications, should be directed to the examiner, Jerry O'Connor, whose telephone number is (703) 305-1525, and whose facsimile number is (703) 746-3976.
